China CRO Directory 2011

Description

CRO: Contract research organization, 合同研究组织(He tong yan fa zu zhi) in Chinese. A Contract Research Organization, also called a Clinical Research Organization, (CRO) is usually a company that provides research supports to the biotech or pharmaceutical firms. CROs offer clients a wide gamut of "outsourced" pharmaceutical R&D services to assist in the drug development process.

There are lots of advantages for conducting clinical trials abroad, especially in China: fast and economical patient recruitment, lower cost, large patient pool, unique disease resources, experienced and highly educated scientists pool, huge market, faster SFDA approval etc... In the past few years,

ChineseTranslationPro.com witnessed increasing interest for conducting clinical studies in China. As a trusted medical translation specialist for English/Chinese language pair, we have successfully assisted countless US and Canadian Ibas in every phase of their cooperation with Chinese CROs: translating initial information package, translating correspondences, clinical protocols, technical reports, status reports, regulatory documents etc...

China CRO Directory 2011

China has the advantage of a large pool of highly trained physicians, nurses, and technical personnel; cutting-edge research and development medical facilities; broadly developed information technology infrastructure. It's important for companies and organizations currently involve or consider to outsource part of their R&D efforts to know what's out their.

The directory of 'China CRO Directory 2011' is the answer to it. It has been compiled, considering the companies involved in clinical research and support services. As it is an emerging market and also as most of the companies may not be listed on stock exchangers, the list may not be comprehensive. The directory covers 109 companies and each profile includes details like description of the company, name of the contact person, areas of CRO services, clinical trial expertise, contact details and organization structure. The details have been obtained from publicly available source, we also surveyed and contact many companies to ensure the accuracy of the information.

China CRO Directory 2011 contains 109 companies currently operating in the CRO filed.
